

Provisional Residence Permit – Family Reunification Asylum Art. 8 ECHR' (516/517)

Please read the explanation first before you start filling in the form.

For whom is this application form intended?

You want to bring a family member from abroad to the Netherlands. You have an asylum residence permit or a derived asylum permit. A derived permit means that your residence depends on the residence permit of a family member. For example, because you came to the Netherlands earlier in connection with family reunification.

With this form you can apply for a Regular Provisional Residence Permit ('machtiging tot voorlopig verblijf' in Dutch and hereinafter: MVV) for your family member. An MVV is an entry visa with which your family member can travel to the Netherlands. Your family member can obtain a derived asylum residence permit after arriving in the Netherlands.

Do you want to apply for an MVV for your family members? And have 3 months not yet passed since you obtained your asylum residence permit? Then first see if you can use the application form 'Application for a Regular Provisional Residence Permit – persons making a journey in connection with family reunification with an asylum seeker' (647). This application is free of charge and the requirements are different.

Do you not have an asylum residence permit or a derivative asylum permit? Or have 3 months already passed since you received your asylum residence permit? And you want to apply for an MVV for your family members?

Use the application form 'Application residence permit: residence with married or registered partner' if you want to apply for an MVV for your married or registered partner.

Use the application form 'Application residence permit: residence with unmarried partner' if you want to apply for an MVV for your unmarried partner.

Use the application form 'Application for the purpose of residence 'family members and relatives'' to apply for an MVV for:

- Minor child with parent; 326
- Parent of an unaccompanied minor child; 347
- Minor foster child / adopted child with foster/adoptive parent; 350

Do you want to apply for family members other than those mentioned above? Then use this form.

In this form you are called a 'sponsor'. Your family member is called a 'foreign national'.

When can you use this form?

You can apply for the MVV for your family member after you have obtained your asylum residence permit or derived asylum residence permit. You can do so with this form.

6 Information on documents and appendices

For your application you must prove the identity of your family member and the family relationship.

Identity

What must you send?

Send a copy of the passport of your family member. Does your family member not have a passport? Then send a copy of another proof of identity. A proof of identity is a document from the government of the country of origin. This is the country of which your family member has the nationality. A proof of identity contains personal details and a passport photo. Does your family member not have a passport or another proof of identity? Then send as many other documents as possible showing the identity of your family member.

How do you send the documents?

If there is a passport or proof of identity you should only copy the pages with:

- the personal details; and
- term of validity; and
- travel stamps; and
- the signature of your family member.

You must copy all pages of other documents.

Family relationship

What must you send?

Send a copy of original documents that prove the family relationship.

How do you send the documents?

Copy all pages of the document. Once the IND has received your application you will receive a confirmation of receipt. An appendix is enclosed with this confirmation of receipt that you must use to send the original documents. It is therefore important for these documents already to be available in the Netherlands. You do not need to send the documents again that were already examined during the asylum procedure.

Translation of the documents

All documents must be written in Dutch, English, German or French. Are the documents written in a different language? Then a sworn translator must translate these documents. This is a translator who has been sworn in by a Dutch court. This translator is listed for this language in the register of sworn interpreters and translators (Rbtv). You can find the Rbtv via www.bureauwbvtv.nl. You must also send this original translation.

Absence of documents

Identity

Do you not have documents to prove the identity? Then explain why not in a separate letter. Make sure that the explanation is comprehensive and deals personally with your family member. A mere explanation of the situation in the country of origin is not sufficient. Please explain:

- why your family member has never had documents; or
- why your family member once had documents but no longer has them now.
- how your family member has managed to survive without documents in day-to-day life in the country of origin.

Family relationship

Do you not have documents to prove the family relationship? Then explain why not in a separate letter. Make sure that the explanation is comprehensive and deals personally with your family member. A mere explanation of the situation in the country of origin is not sufficient. Please explain:

- why your family member has never had documents; or
- why your family member once had documents but no longer has them now.
- how your family member has managed to survive without documents in day-to-day life in the country of origin.

Value of document

When assessing your application, the IND examines all documents that you sent. The IND attaches more value to government documents. It is also important for the documents to contain sufficient personal details, such as the surnames and given names of you and your family member and your dates of birth. A document also has more value if there is a photo on it. The IND attaches less value to documents that the government has not issued. This also applies to documents with few personal details or documents without a photo.

Assessment of identity and family relationship

The IND assesses whether you have made the identity of your family member and the family relationship plausible. To do so, the IND assesses all documents and statements together. Does the IND think that you have made the identity and family relationship plausible? Then the IND will see if you have been given the benefit of the doubt. This means that the IND will examine further, or assess your application positively. An examination can be an interview or a DNA test.

Appendices

It is also important for you to fill in the appendix completely. Has the IND asked for an explanation? Then make sure that you write a comprehensive and personal explanation. A short explanation is not sufficient for the IND.

7 Place to collect an MVV (if the application is granted)

State below where your family member wants to collect the MVV. This can be done at a Dutch embassy or consulate in the country of origin, or in the country where your family member resides. Does your family member reside in a European country? Then you must send a copy of your family member's residence document.

Is there no Dutch embassy or consulate in the country where your family member resides? Then your family member can pick up the MVV in a neighbouring country where there is one.

Always fill in these details. Do you not yet know where your family member wants to collect the MVV? Then fill in the details of the Dutch embassy or consulate where you think that your family member will collect the MVV. You can always change this later.
